Is your hearing affecting your income?

Hearing loss can affect a person's life in many ways, but according to a recent study conducted by the Better Hearing Institute (BHI), that loss has been shown to affect your life in various monetary ways.

According to the study, Americans affected with hearing loss make far less money than those with normal hearing.

But for those with hearing loss, the study found that the amount of income lost could be reduced with the use of hearing aids.

By leaving hearing loss untreated, it can affect a household's income negatively, on average, by nearly $23,000 per year depending on the how bad the hearing loss is found to be, according to the survey. Using hearing aids can lessen the effects of loss of income by almost 50 percent, also according to the study.
